[illegible]

A black and white photograph of a baseball game in progress. The scene is captured from a high angle, showing the pitcher's mound, the infield, and parts of the outfield. A pitcher is on the mound, and a batter is at home plate. Several other players are positioned around the field. The field is grassy with a dirt infield. The image has a grainy, historical quality.

Reds to Start Training at Bloomington

Monday, March 19, with 31 Players on Squad

Thirty-one players, three more than were listed a year ago, are slated to make up the squad of Cincinnati Reds that goes into training Monday, March 19 at Bloomington, Indiana.

For the third successive season the Reds are fortunate to have available the facilities of Indiana University, including the mammoth fieldhouse where indoor workouts will be staged on days when the elements are unfavorable for outdoor work.

Of the 31 players who are scheduled to report, four are catchers, eleven are pitchers, nine are infielders, and seven are outfielders. Twenty of the 31 were with the Reds last season, and of the eleven newcomers eight have had experience in leagues of A-1 or AA classifications.

Oldest performer on the roster is catcher Johnny Riddle, who will be 40 next October 3. Youngest is pitcher Joe Nuxhall, who will be 17 on July 30. Smallest and lightest is infielder Ralph Kraus, a product of American Legion ball. He stands five feet nine inches and weighs 160. Tallest and heaviest is outfielder Al Libke, who stands six feet four inches and weighs 215.

Bill McKechnie is starting his eighth season as manager of the Reds. He will have with him as catcher Hank Gowdy and Jimmy Wilson, who coached the world champion Reds of 1940. Gowdy, who has been serving as a Major in the U. S. Army, replaces John Lobert.
